

Merry Christmas from the Hancocks!

The past four years have come and gone, and we are on furlough once again in the USA. So much has happened, we've had trials, blessings, ups and downs, but through it all God has remained faithful and true. We are based in Morris, IL, where we have been greeted with much love from our First Christian Church family, and have already traveled quite a bit. In the short time that we have been on furlough, we've been able to attend the National Missionary Convention, travel through eight different states, worship with three congregations, introduce Lizzet to much of her extended family, and reacquaint ourselves with Cracker Barrel (gotta love that comfort food!).

December 2010

We look forward to visiting with many of you and catching up with what God is doing in your lives. We can hardly wait to share with you what has been happening with our ministry in Mexico City and the El Camino Church. The transition to furlough was bittersweet. Although we were looking forward to being in the United States to visit with many friends and family members, it was difficult to leave our Mexican church family and friends. Please pray for the leaders of the El Camino church that they will make godly decisions and lean on God's strength. Please also pray for our family – especially Mitchell, Mallory, and Lizzet – as we transition back to life in the United States and do a lot of traveling. And please know that we have been and will be praying for you, too.

May God richly bless you, not only during this Christmas season, but throughout your lives. Thank you so very much for praying for us and supporting us through the past years. God has blessed us through you.

Hoping to see you soon,

Todd, Tonja, Mitchell, Mallory, and Lizzet
